

life is a challenge and life its like journey that we must live it until it finish. we always faced by many challenge in our life. We must be have a challenge that give impact and made we know who we are. Im Vicky Darmana and im gonna talk about what challenge that i have overcome that made i know who i am . I think my biggest challenge is when im getting older . when im getting older my responsibility become more bigger and i must think about many things such as my future my relationship with friends ,how i manage my time, and many things . Also i must seek experience as much as i can and know myself completely. Knowing ourself completely is important because we must know our emotion,our characters,our weekness, our advantages and many because when we know ourself completely we can reach our main goals easily and we can control ourself i have one wuote that motivate me to know myself more is Believe in yourself, your abilities and your potentials. Never let self-doubt hold you captive. You are worthy of all that you dream of and hope for. so thats all my biggest challange that overcome me that made me know who i am thankyou
